

A Tribute to a Phenomenal Ex-Sakerette

By

Dr. Nessie Ndive Hill

Your name is Egbe Etonde Mbiwan

Your late parents, mama Elizabeth and papa Ebai Mbiwan gave birth to four beautiful children, namely, Ebob, Late Acha, Egbe, and Namondo Mbiwan,

And they raised all of you with great, moral, and Christian values

Your parents taught you well—kindness, love, compassion, humility and more...

You are an amazing and fabulous woman, and above all, our Saker pride!

Your birthday is symbolic of the years gone by

And that calls for a big celebration-Fifty years!

So make the best of this moment, because each day is unique and special.

Today, you are a wife, mother, aunt, sister, an educator, and world traveler,

Your husband, Mojimbo, daughter, Manuela, and son, George are all very proud of you!

You are loving, compassionate, caring, and reliable,

You are hilarious, beautiful, spiritual, generous, and intelligent.

In love, unity, and sisterhood, your friends and family have converged in North Carolina to celebrate your milestone and great life!

You are a self-effacing tower of character, courage, and strength,

So with each flicker of the candle on the cake,

May your journey never end, and may your spirit never grow old!

For you are a phenomenal woman, and an extraordinary human being!

Your name is Egbe, and your website is Saker Pride!
You have given back to your community, celebrated the lives of many,
and made a difference in the world!
We pray to God that your life continues to glow and shine in the presence of all those you encounter
As we look forward towards celebrating your centennial.
